About New Brunswick Health Research Foundation

The New Brunswick Health Research Foundation (NBHRF) was created in July 2008 with a mandate to coordinate, support and promote health research in New Brunswick.

The NBHRF is an independent organization governed by a board of directors comprised of key stakeholders from the health research community in New Brunswick.

Our Vision

A healthy population, a high performing health system, and a vibrant knowledge economy through health research and innovation.

Our Mission

To promote, coordinate and support all aspects of the health research enterprise and related innovation activities in New Brunswick.
